

A Theosophical Home Crusade meeting was held in Arcanum Hall, Jersey City, last night, and there was a good attendance. The founder of the new Theosophical Society for Jersey City, John M. Pryse, said concerning "Brotherhood";

Notwithstanding all the religious and philososhies, both ancient and modern, and all the refermers who sacrificed their lives, this world needs more than all else the feeling of brotherhood. Bigotry and selfishness are everywhere apparent; nations continue arming, till there is an air of impending calamity. 'Man's inhumanity to man makes hange all this, being the balm for the healing of the nations. The chief object of the society is to form the nucleus of universal brotherhood, without disinctions of easte, creed or color, and in the last few years has accomplished a great deal in that direction. But brotherhood is not 'goody-goodyness," it is not being a 'hale fellow well met'-it is a deep friendship for the whole world, and placing the cause of humanity above all personal concerns; it is true fraternity. Practicality would say that this was very good, but too visionary. Nevertheless, brotherhood is a fact in nature. We are united to our fellows by physical, intellectual and spiritual ties impossible to sever. It is said one gets an entirely new body every seven years, there seing a constant interchange of atoms. Therefore we are bound to one another physically. Mindwe are united on the plane of thoughts. Everywhere are evidences that we affect others by even anvoiced thoughts. Spiritually we must all have proceeded from the one great source and cause, whether it be called God or Allah, whether it be personal or devoid of personal attributes. Therefore, whether looked at physically, intellectually or spiritually, we have all the same origin, common interests and the same destiny. Is there a greater fact, or a more practical one, to apply to workaday life than brotherhood? An injury to a single unit is an injury to all. We are our brother's keeper, and never again can we urge the excuse of Cain. What a fearful responsibility is thus placed upon everyone, for not by a single evil act or even as thought should we hinder another on his upward way to perfection—the grand consummation of the race. Only as one, whether a member of the Theosophical Society or not, brings into his thoughts and acts this great ideal of brotherhood, does he become a true Theosophist."

A NAVAL RESERVE COMMANDER OUT.

Trenton, Feb. 6.—Charles B. Dahlgren, commander of the Department of the West, New-Jersey Naval Reserve, handed in his resignation to-day. In a recent report on the operation of the Naval Milita of the United States, made by two officers of the Palaton, he was sharply criticized, and this of the Kaleigh, he was sharply criticised, and this, it is thought, had something to do with his resigna-tion. A bill now before the Legislature, which is said to be simed at the commander, places the Reserve under the direct authority of the State Military Board, and this may also have had some-thing to do with his retirement. Lieutenant-Gov-ernor Eugene S. Davis is a candidate to succeed

Our store is a delightfully interesting place to the ladies just now. The clashing of two seasons-winter and springmakes it so. Winter is loth to depart and spring is anxious to get in. Cold days will be many before the balmy atmosphere of blossomtime arrives; but the prime of winter is fast waning, and spring, like a young giant, longs to show its strength. We shall give both seasons a chance. Winter's going will be made easy by cutting the prices of its needs severely low; spring will be encouraged to enter by placing its offerings on view at prices that will commend themselves to every one.
